Sneak peek at next week

Reading: In Reading next week we will be writing opinions about some of the most popular read aloud books from Interactive reading.

Phonics: Next week in Phonics we will be working on the word wall words: look and little. We will write, make, and read those words. We will also be practicing using sound boxes and saying the individual sounds in words. We will work with a partner.

Writing: Next week we will continue writing our opinions but we will be doing a new authors study: Donald Crews.

Math: Next week we will continue learning about addition and subtraction number stories.
