Course Description

This art course is an advanced art course for Capitol Hill Middle School. Students will use skills from beginning and intermediate art to explore their own point of view as an artist. This course builds critical thinking skills by:

- Students using different iPad apps & tools along with traditional art mediums to create art
- Students planning, creating, polishing, and completing projects
- Students developing positive and productive independent & collaborative work habits

Middle school advanced art students will become more independent and creative artists. They will be evaluated on production, presentation, collaboration, communication, revision and class citizenship. This course meets state and national Arts standards. The major areas of focus are:

Grading and Reporting

Students receive midterm and final grades that integrate the standards into learning tasks/units

Projects: Students will create multiple projects individually and collaboratively. Planning, sketching, outlining, providing feedback, and revising will be required depending on the project.

Presentations: Students will create presentations using digital tools that will be shared as a class. Students will participate, provide feedback, and demonstrate listening and note-taking abilities.

Responding: Students will compose reflections on their work, themselves as an artist (writing an artist statement), and respond to various artworks.

Gradebook Breakdown: (updated weekly)

20% Formative Assessment	80% Summative Assessment
