

After a student has finished a book, they are required to complete a Reading Response.

Name: _____ Date: _____ Class: _____

READING RESPONSE RUBRIC:

	E	P	D	N
Mechanics	All sentences start with capital letters and end with punctuation. The title of the book is capitalized and underlined.	Most sentences start with capital letters and end with punctuation.	Some sentences start with capital letters and end with punctuation, but most sentences are incomplete (fragments & run-ons) Fragment = part of a sentence Run-on = sentence goes on & on	Missing capitalization and punctuation
Organization	Paragraph is indented and starts with a topic sentence and is supported with three or more related details. The paragraph ends with a conclusion statement.	Paragraph starts with a topic sentence and is supported with three details. The paragraph ends with a conclusion statement.	The paragraph is missing or has the following parts out of order: topic sentence, three supporting details and conclusion.	There is no topic sentence. The supporting details are random.
Content	The response is at least 10 sentences. The reading response topic and book title are identified in the topic (first) sentence. Three or more details support the topic sentence and cite evidence from the text. The paragraph ends with a conclusion statement that restates the topic sentence.	The response is at least 5 sentences. The reading response topic (or book title) are identified in the topic sentence. Three details support the topic sentence. The paragraph ends with a conclusion statement.	The topic sentence may be missing the Reading Response Topic and/or book title. Some of the details are not connected and don't support the topic. A conclusion may be missing.	The response does not match a reading response topic.

Notes: